

WILSON DECLARES A LEAGUE OF FREE NATIONS NECESSITY TO NEW ORDER

PRES. EBERT SIGNS PEACE PACT BILL

Action of German Assembly Quickly Approved by the Nation's President

Final Approval of the Treaty is at Once Forwarded to Versailles.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
BERLIN, Wednesday, July 10.—President Ebert signed the bill ratifying the peace treaty at 8 o'clock tonight, according to the VORWARTS and the document has been despatched to Versailles.

VERSAILLES, July 10.—Official notification of the ratification of the peace treaty by the German national assembly was given the peace conference this morning.

The notification was presented by Baron Kurt Von Lersner, head of the German peace mission here. Colonel Henry of the French liaison office at Versailles was the recipient. The hour was eleven a. m.

Colonel Henry immediately conveyed the notification to the French foreign office.

WEIMAR, July 10.—The German national assembly, very plainly demonstrated yesterday that it wanted to complete the unpleasant task of ratifying the treaty quickly and without obscuring the measure in any way with qualifying resolutions.

At the opening session the conservatives introduced a resolution which would make ratification dependent upon the judgment of recognized authorities in international law as to whether the proposed international court could institute trial and could, with retroactive jurisdiction and authority, impose penalties which have not heretofore been prescribed in international law. The resolution was aimed at the enforcement of Articles 227 to 230, inclusive, of the peace treaty (providing for the trial of the former emperor and other Germans accused of causing the war or of violations of the rules of war.) It also provided for the establishment of a neutral court to pass upon the question of responsibility for the conflict.

The bill ratifying the treaty passed the first reading and then a recess was taken to give the parties an opportunity to discuss the resolution. After fifteen minutes the assembly reconvened and Dr. Shiffer, national liberal leader and former minister of finance stated that he regretted the introduction of the resolution, as it would only serve to confuse the situation. A clerical speaker said the time for reservations was passed. The conservatives defended the resolution but it was decisively beaten.

The treaty bill was then taken up and quickly passed second and third readings, with the opposition coming from democrats, national liberals and conservatives.

Thieves Get Away With $5,000 Cash

TOLEDO, O., July 10.—Police so far have searched without success for the thieves who took $5,000 in stock certificates, a necklace and $300 in Liberty bonds from an automobile belonging to S. C. Kingsley of Cleveland. The valuables were in a hand bag which was left in the car in front of a local hotel. Kingsley was motoring from Chicago to Cleveland.

R-34 WELL OUT TO SEA HOMEWARD

Circles Over New York City Then Disappears to the East.

Radio Messages Show Wonder Ship Making Good Time at Sea

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, July 10.—The British dirigible R-34 was 845 miles due east of New York on her return trip to Scotland at 8:10 a. m., Washington time, today, according to a radio message to the navy department. The message said: "R-34 position at 11:10 G. M. T., latitude 40.15 north; longitude 65.50 west."

NEW YORK, July 10.—The British rigid dirigible R-34 today is well on her way toward home after a stay in America of eighty-six hours, following the first non-top trans-Atlantic flight from a lighter-than-air ship. Taking air at 11:56 o'clock last night at Roosevelt field, Mineola, L. I., the big dirigible passed over New York City, circled over the Times building tower at 12:45, remaining in sight of a dense Broadway crowd for five minutes before heading south over Lower Manhattan and disappearing in an easterly direction at 1:06 a. m. For more than an hour the naval communication's office sent wireless reports of weather conditions at sea to the R-34 and the wireless stations at the Mineola flying fields were in communication with her until nearly 4:00 a. m., when the R-34 radio operator requested that further weather reports be sent from the Bar Harbor, Me., radio station.

Announcement by Major G. H. Scott, commander of the R-34, of his intention to sail over the city, was made in theatres and restaurants with the result that thousands of persons crowded in Broadway for a glimpse of the airship as she passed through the shafts of light shot skyward from scores of searchlights. She flew quite low over Broadway, not being much over 800 feet in the air and proceeding at low speed. "Well out to sea" was the last message from the R-34, picked up by the police headquarters wireless at 2:15 a. m., almost an hour after Major Scott had fulfilled his promise to pilot his ship over New York. The decision to make the start was reached early last evening when Major Scott received a warning from the United States weather bureau that the strong southwest winds might continue for another day and endanger the big bag on the exposed plain of Roosevelt field.

JANE ADDAMS AT BERLIN.
BERLIN, (Wednesday), July 9.—Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, president of the International Congress of Women for Permanent Peace, has arrived in Berlin.

THE MAN WHO WOULD PREVENT FUTURE WARS

President Woodrow Wilson who went before Senate today to lay all Peace Treaty facts and League of Nations plans before legislators.

SOME ALIENS TO BE FREED; CLEMENCY DENIED DEBS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH)
WASHINGTON, July 10.—Signaling the peace treaty with Germany has resulted in a decision by the Department of Justice that the great majority of German and Austrian enemy aliens now at large on parole may be released from all parole obligations safely.

Attorney General Palmer, however has not changed his policy, announced at the time of the conviction of Eugene V. Debs, with respect to citizens convicted under the espionage law and dangerous aliens still in confinement.

Mr. Palmer said today the department was continuing to review cases of persons convicted under the espionage act and that recommendations for clemency in a number of them soon would be presented to President Wilson.

These do not include the cases of Debs or others of "similar importance," however.

Mr. Palmer today issued these instructions to District Attorneys: "You hereby are instructed to take the necessary steps to cancel, effective July 20, all parole restrictions governing persons in your district, with the following exceptions:

"1. The paroles of all persons released on parole subsequent to July 15 are not to be cancelled, but to continue in full force and effect until further notice.

"2. Paroles of all alien enemies, if any in your district whom you believe cannot be released from parole without detriment to the public safety.

"3. Paroles of alien enemies temporarily paroled from internment camps on account of sickness, for the purpose of repatriation or for any other special reason, irrespective of the date of release.

"After July 15 the department's representatives at the internment camps will be instructed to release unconditionally alien enemies who do not require special surveillance.

"All alien enemies, including those now to be released from parole, will continue subject to internment under Subdivision 12 of the proclamation of April 6 and those provisions of the succeeding proclamations providing internment of dangerous alien enemies."

It was said the parole instructor would affect most of the aliens interned during the war, but no estimate of the number to be released was available.

TO RESTRICT ALIENS.

LONDON, July 10.—Notwithstanding strong opposition by the government a house of commons committee today adopted by a vote of 16 to 12 a clause in the alien bill restricting the employment of aliens in Great Britain.

Dog Saves Lives of Three Persons

NEWARK, O., July 10.—When Mrs. Frank Darnes and her two children were en route to their home in Madison Township today the family dog Rover, rushed at them, growling viciously. A short distance ahead lay a huge copperhead snake, which struck at Mrs. Darnes, instantly after she caught sight of it. The dog leaped also and caught the snake in its mouth, biting its head and saving the lives of Mrs. Darnes and her children.

JUDICIAL VACANCIES.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Recommendations for two important judgeships will be made soon to President Wilson by Attorney General Palmer. Mr. Palmer announced D. D. Dyer, of St. Louis, and Judge John W. Worthington, of Cincinnati, have asked to be retired under the law permitting federal jurists to return to private life at full pay after ten years of service and attaining the age of 70.

ADOPTION OF COVENANT MADE WORK OF PEACE FOR THE WORLD EASIER

Formed Basis of Hope For Success in Many of the Difficult Things Attempted at Paris

AMERICANS AS CRUSADERS

Crowds in Senate Gallery Breaks Rule and Cheer Long When President Addresses Solons

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Wilson in presenting the peace treaty with Germany to the senate today declared that "a league of free nations had become a practical necessity," to which the framers of the treaty felt obliged to turn "as an indispensable instrumentality for the maintenance of the new order it has been their purpose to set up in the world."

The "most skeptical" of the peace conferees at Paris, the president said, had turned more and more to the league as discussion progressed in seeking solution of the problems that arose in framing the terms of the treaty itself.

"The fact that the covenant of the league was the first substantive part of the treaty to be worked out and agreed upon," the president said, "while all else was in solution, helped to make the formulation of the rest easier."

Mr. Wilson said the agreement on the covenant had given the conferees a feeling that their work was to be permanent and that the most practical among them "were at last the most ready to refer to the league of nations the superintendence or all interests which did not admit of immediate determination, of all administrative problems which were to require a continuing oversight."

"What had seemed a counsel of perfection," said the president, "had come to seem a plain counsel of necessity. The league of nations was the practical statesman's hope of success in many of the most difficult things he was attempting."

When the president entered the senate chamber, escorted by a committee of senators, the crowded galleries rose and cheered for a minute in disregard of the senate rules. The president, mounting to the vice president's seat, spoke briefly with Vice President Marshall as the cheering continued, punctuated with "rebel" yells.

TEXT OF ADDRESS.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Wilson in presenting the peace treaty and the league of nations to the senate today spoke as follows: "Gentlemen of the senate: The treaty of peace with Germany was signed at Versailles on the 28th of June. I avail myself of the earliest opportunity to lay the treaty before you for ratification and to inform you with regard to the work of the conference by which that treaty was formulated.

"The treaty constitutes nothing less than a world agreement. It would not be possible for me either to summarize or to construe its manifold provisions in an address which must of necessity be something less than a treatise. My services and all the information I possess will be at your disposal and at the disposal of your committee on foreign relations at any time either informally or in session, as you may prefer; and I hope that you will not hesitate to make use of them. I shall at this time, prior to your own study of the document attempt only a general characterization of its scope and purpose.

"The United States entered the war upon a different footing from every other nation, except our associates on this side the sea. We entered it, not because of our material interests were directly threatened or because any special treaty obligations to which we were parties had been violated, but only because we saw the supremacy, and even the validity, of right everywhere put in jeopardy and free government likely to be everywhere imperiled by the intolerable aggression of a power which respected neither right nor obligation, and whose very system of government flouted the rights of the citizen as against the autocratic authority of his government. And in the settlements of the peace we have sought no special reparation for ourselves, but only the restoration of right and the assurance of liberty everywhere that the effects of the settlement were to be felt. We entered the war as the disinterested champions of right and we interested ourselves in the terms of the peace in no other capacity.

America Saved World.
The hopes of the nation allied against the central powers were at a very low ebb when our soldiers began to pour across the sea. There was everywhere amongst them, except in their stoutest spirits, a somber foreboding of disaster. The war ended in November, eight months ago, but you have only to recall what was feared in midsummer last, four short months before the armistice, to realize what it was that our timely aid accomplished alike for their morale and their physical safety. That first, never-to-be-forgotten action at Chateau-Thierry had already taken place. Our redoubtable soldiers and marines had already closed the gap the enemy had succeeded in opening for their advance upon Paris—had already turned the tide of battle back towards the frontiers of France and begun the rout that was to save Europe and the world. Thereafter the Germans were always to be forced back, back, were never to thrust successfully forward again. And yet there was no confident hope. Anxious men and women, leading spirits of France, attended the celebration of the Fourth of July last year in Paris out of generous courtesy—with no heart for festivities; little zest for hope. But they came away with something new at their hearts. They have themselves told us so. The mere sight of our men—of their vigor, of their confidence that showed in every movement of their stalwart figures and every turn of their swinging march, in their steady comprehending eyes and easy discipline, in the indomitable air that added spirit to everything they did—made every one who saw them that memorable day realize that something had happened that was much more than a mere incident in the fighting, something very different from the mere arrival of fresh troops.

A great moral force had flung itself into the struggle. The fine physical force of those spirited men spoke of something more than bodily vigor. They carried the great ideals of a free people at their hearts and with that vision were unconquerable. Their very presence brought assurance.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

It has been said that there is now hardly a city, town or village in this country wherein some woman does not reside who has found health in that good, old-fashioned remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Therefore, if you are suffering from some ailment, and hardly know what to do for it, and have tried other remedies without help, ask your neighbor if she has ever used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If she herself has never had the need for it, undoubtedly she knows others who were just in your condition and who have been restored to health by its use.

ance; their fighting made victory certain.

Yanks Were Crusaders

They were recognized as crusaders, and as their thousands swelled to millions their strength was seen to mean salvation. And they were fit men to carry such a hope and make good the assurance it forecast. Finer men never went into battle; and their officers were worthy of them. This is not the occasion upon which to utter a eulogy of the armies America sent to France but perhaps since I am speaking of their mission, I may speak also of the pride I shared with every American who saw or dealt with them there. They were the sort of men America would wish to be represented by, the sort of men every American would wish to claim as fellow countrymen and comrades in a great cause. They were terrible in battle, and gentle and helpful out of it, remembering the mothers and the sisters, the wives and the little children at home. They were free men under arms, not forgetting their ideals of duty in the midst of tasks of violence. I am proud to have had the privilege of being associated with them and of calling myself their leader.

But I speak now of what they meant to the men by whose sides they fought and to the people with whom they mingled with such utter simplicity, as friends who asked only to be of service. They were for all the visible embodiment of America. What they did made America and all that she stood for a living reality in the thoughts not only of the people of France but also of tens of millions of men and women throughout all the tolling nations of a world standing everywhere in peril of its freedom and of the loss of everything it held dear, in deadly fear that its bonds were never to be loosed, its hopes forever to be mocked and disappointed.

To Quiet Fears

And the compulsion of what they stood for was upon us who represented America at the peace table. It was our duty to see to it that every direction we took part in contributed, so far as we were able to influence it, to quiet the fears and realize the hopes of the peoples who had been living in that shadow, the nations that had come by our assistance to their freedom. It was our duty to do everything that it was within our power to do to make the triumph of freedom and of right a lasting triumph in the assurance of which men might everywhere live without fear.

Old entanglements of every kind stood in the way—promises which governments had made to one another in the days when might and right were confused and the power of the victor was without restraint.

Engagements which contemplated any dispositions of territory, any extensions of sovereignty that might seem to be to the interest of those who had the power to insist upon them, had been entered into without thought of what the peoples concerned might wish or profit by and these could not always or honorably be brushed aside. It was not easy to graft the new order of ideas on the old, and some of the fruits of the grafting may, I fear, for a time be bitter. But, with very few exceptions, the men who sat with us at the peace table desired as sincerely as we did to get away from the bad influences, the illegitimate purposes, the demoralizing ambitions, the ill counsels and expedients out of the sinister designs of Germany had sprung as a natural growth. It had been our privilege to formulate the principles which were accepted as the basis of the peace but they had been accepted, not because we had come in to hasten and assure the victory and insisted upon them, but because they were readily accepted to us as the principles to which honorable and enlightened minds everywhere had been bred. They spoke the conscience of the world as well as the conscience of America, and I am happy to pay my tribute of respect and gratitude to the able, forward-looking men with whom it was my privilege to co-operate for their unflinching spirit of co-operation, their constant effort to accommodate the interests they represented to the principles we were all agreed upon.

The difficulties which were many, lay in the circumstances, not often in the men. Almost without exception the men who led had caught the true and full vision of the problem of peace as an indivisible whole, a problem, not of mere adjustments of interest but of justice and right action.

"The atmosphere in which the conference worked seemed created, not by the ambitions of strong governments, but by the hopes and aspirations and of peoples hitherto under bondage to the power that victory had shattered and destroyed. Two great empires have been forced into political bankruptcy and we were the receivers. Our task was not only to make peace with the central empires and remedy the wrongs their armies had done. The central empires had lived in open violation of many of the very rights for which the war had been fought, dominating alien peoples over whom they had no natural right to rule, enforcing not obedience but veritable bondage, exploiting those who were weak for the benefit of those who were masters and overlords only by force of arms. There could be no peace until the whole order of Central Europe was set right.

"That meant that new nations were to be created—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary itself. No part of ancient Poland had ever in any true sense become a part of Germany, or of Austria, or of Russia. Bohemia was alien in every thought and hope to the monarchy of which she had so long been an artificial part, and the uneasy partnership between Austria and Hungary had been one rather of interest than of kinship or sympathy. The Slavs, whom Austria had chosen to force into her empire on the south were kept to their obedience by nothing but fear. Their hearts were with their kinsmen in the Balkans. These were all arrangements of power, not arrangements of natural union or association. It was the imperative task of those who would make peace and make it intelligently to establish a new order which would rest upon the free choice of peoples rather than on the arbitrary authority of Hapsburgs or Hohenzollerns. More than that, great populations bound by sympathy and actual kin to Rumania were also linked against their will to the conglomerate Austro-Hungarian monarchy or to other alien sovereignties, and it was part of the task of peace to make a new Rumania as well as a new Slavic state clustering about Serbia.

Question of Frontier

"And no natural frontiers could be found to these new fields of adjustment and redemptions. It was necessary to look forward to other related tasks. The German colonies were to be disposed of. They had not been governed; they had been exploited merely, without thought of the interest or even the ordinary human rights of their inhabitants.

"The Turkish empire, moreover, had fallen apart, as the Austro-Hungarian had. It had never had any real unity. It had been held together only by pitiless, inhuman force. Its peoples cried aloud for release, for succor from unspeakable distress, for all that the new day of hope seemed at last to bring within its dawn. Peoples hitherto in utter darkness were to be led out into the same light and given at least a helping hand. Undeveloped peoples and peoples ready for recognition but not yet ready to assume the full responsibilities of statehood were to be given adequate guarantees of friendly protection, guidance and assistance.

"And out of the execution of these great enterprises of liberty sprang opportunities to attempt what statesmen had never found the way before to do; an opportunity to throw safeguards about the rights of racial, national and religious minorities by solemn international covenant; an opportunity to limit and regulate military establishments where they were most likely to be mischievous; an opportunity to effect a complete and systematic internationalization of waterways and railways which were necessary to free economic life of more than one nation and to clear many of the normal channels of commerce of unfair obstructions of law or of privilege and the very welcome opportunity to secure for labor the concerted protection of definite international pledges of principle and practice."

Tasks War Created

These were not tasks which the conference looked about it to find and went out of its way to perform. They were inseparable from the settlements of peace. They were thrust upon it by circumstances which could not be overlooked. The war had created them. In all quarters of the world old established relationships had been disturbed or broken and affairs were at loose ends, needing to be mended or united again, but could not be made what they were before. They had to be set right by applying some uniform principle of justice or enlightened expediency, and they could not be adjusted by merely prescribing in a treaty what should be done. New states were to be set up which could not hope to live through their first period of weakness without assured support by the great nations that had consented to their creation and won for them their independence.

All governed colonies could not be put in the hands of governments which were to act as trustees for their people and not as their masters if there was to be no common authority among the nations to which they were to be responsible in the execution of their trust. Future international conventions with regard to the control of waterways, with regard to illicit traffic of many kinds, in arms or in deadly drugs, or with regard to the adjustment of many varying international administrative arrangements could not be assured if the treaty were to provide no permanent common international agency, if its execution in such matters was to be left to the slow and uncertain processes of co-operation by ordinary methods of negotiation.

Needed to Steady

That there should be a league of nations to steady the counsels and maintain the peaceful understanding of the world, to make, not treaties alone, but the accepted principles of international law as well, the actual rule of conduct among the governments of the world, had been one of the agreements accepted from the first as the basis of peace with the central powers. The statesmen of all the belligerent countries were agreed that such a league must be created to sustain the settlement that were to be effected. But at first I think there was a feeling among some of them that, while it must be attempted, the formation of such a league was perhaps a counsel of perfection which practical men, long experienced in the world of affairs, must agree to every cautiously and with very many misgivings. It was only as the difficult work of arranging on all but universal adjustments of the world's affairs advanced from day to day from one stage of conference to another that it became evident to them that what they were seeking would be a little more than something written upon paper, to be interpreted and applied by such methods as the chances of politics might make available if they did not provide a means of common counsel which all were obliged to accept, a common authority whose decisions which all must respect.

Free Nations Unite

"Statesmen might see difficulties, but the people could see none and could brook no denial. A war in which they had been bled while to beat the terror that lay concealed in every balance of power must not end in a mere victory of arms and a new balance. The monster that had resorted to arms must be put in chains that could not be broken. The united power of free nations must put a stop to aggression, and the world must be given peace. If there was not the will or the intelligence to accomplish that now, there must be another and a final war and the world must be swept clean of every power that could renew the terrors.

"The league of nations was not merely an instrument to adjust and remedy old wrongs under a new treaty of peace; it was the only hope for mankind. Again and again had the demand of war been cast out of the house of the peoples and the house swept clean by a treaty of peace; only to prepare a time when he would enter in again with spirits worse than himself. The house must now be given a tenant who could hold it against all such . . . Convenient indeed, indispensable as statesmen found the newly planned league of nations to be for the execution of present plans of peace and reparation, they saw it in a new aspect before their work was finished. They saw it as the main object of the peace, as the only thing that could complete it or make it worth while. They saw it as the hope of the world, and that hope they did not dare to disappoint. Shall we or any other free people hesitate to accept this great duty? Dare we reject it and break the heart of the world?"

Not All Pleased

"And so the conference of peace so far as Germany is concerned, stands complete. The difficulties encountered were very many. Sometimes they stand inseparable. It was impossible to accommodate the interests of so great a body of nations—interests which directly or indirectly affected almost every nation in the world—without minor compromises. The treaty, as a result, is not exactly what we would have written. It is probably not what any one of the national delegations would have written. But results were worked out which on the whole bear test. I think that it will be found that the compromises which were accepted as inevitable nowhere cut to the heart of any principle. The work of the conference squares, as a whole, with the principles agreed upon as the basis of the peace as well as with the practical possibilities of the international situations which had to be faced and dealt with as facts.

I shall presently have occasion to lay before you a special treaty with France, whose object is the temporary protection of France from unprovoked aggression by the power with whom this treaty of peace has been negotiated. Its terms link it with this treaty. I take the liberty, however, of reserving it for special explanation on another occasion.

UNTIL JULY 10th

Following its custom established several years ago, the Allen County Savings & Loan Company will allow interest on Savings Deposits made to and including July 10th, the same as though made on July first.

This is allowing an additional five days grace for this month to give depositors an opportunity to readjust their affairs and still have the benefit of interest for the full month of July.

No change is made in the rule regarding Certificates of deposit which bear interest from date of issue until paid if left six months or longer.

The assets of this Company, as expressed in figures, amount to more than two million dollars; but its greatest asset is its history of service and sound business principles.

Jockey Small is Still Going From State Hospital

Up to this afternoon no clew has been found as to the whereabouts of Gerry Small, former jockey and for the past several months a patient at the Lima state hospital, who escaped sometime Wednesday afternoon. Small with a squad of trustees were sent to the hospital laundry, in the extreme end of the building, to work. He watched his chance, and when a door was opened, made a dash for liberty.

Guards pursued in a few minutes, but no trace of him could be found. Police were notified to watch all outgoing trains. According to Dr. Clark superintendent, Small is harmless and at the time of his escape wore a blue shirt, blue trousers and straw hat.

Fifteen patients are to be transferred to Lima state hospital from Cleveland within the next few days, according to Dr. Clark.

BOUND OVER FOR ASSAULT

After pleading not guilty and waiving preliminary examination when arraigned in Justice Hamilton's court today, William Kinney was bound over to the grand jury under a $25 bond. The man was arraigned at the instance of Cora Browne, who avers he assaulted her son, Stanley Brown.

POLK WILL GO

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Frank L. Polk, under secretary of state, will succeed Secretary Lansing as head of the American peace delegation at Paris, it was said today in official circles. Secretary Lansing will sail for home Friday, but the time of Mr. Polk's departure for Paris has not been announced. It is expected, however, that he will leave within a short time.

Centenary Celebration Columbus

(OHIO)

Positively Closes Sun. Jul., 13th.

Described by William C. Freeman, Associated with Fair Block, Inc., New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston.

Only three days after today remain for those who have not yet seen this MASTER EXPOSITION OF MODERN TIMES — to see it.

IT WILL BE A GREAT PITY IF YOU DON'T SEE IT.

WILLIAM G. McADOO, Ex-Secretary of the Treasury—a very level headed business man, who is not given to saying things he does not mean, told me that this is the most unique, the most remarkable, the most constructive, the most far-reaching exposition he had ever seen.

He was tremendously pleased also with the wonderful attention he received from over 15,000 people who heard him deliver his great League of Nations speech, from the grandstand in the oval, on July Fourth—one of the hottest days either he or his advisers ever experienced.

BUT HEAT DOES NOT AFFECT THE ARDOR OF THE PEOPLE WHO ATTEND THIS CENTENARY CELEBRATION. NOTHING AFFECTS IT.

There is a great wave of approval and appreciation shown by the thousands of thousands of people that have seen it.

Everywhere I went among the crowds during the 72 hours I visited this GREAT EXPOSITION—6 days — I heard most enthusiastic comments.

Furthermore, a great many men and women to whom I spoke without the formality of introduction (this illustrates the democracy of this wonderful Exposition) said to me:

This Centenary Celebration should repeat itself in all sections of the United States for it is a marvelous example of what can be accomplished in rebuilding the world when the work done by so many thousands of earnest men and women, who give us something for the benefit of ourselves, so intelligent, so humane, so sincere, so helpful."

I believe myself that the Centenary Celebration, which has proved to be far more impressive and attractive than even the Century in charge and the thousands of volunteers, who needed so wonderfully to make it a success, dreamed it would last—so there will be a great day as up in all parts of America.

"BRING IT TO US. BRING IT TO US. WE WANT TO SEE WHAT IS BEING DONE TO PUT ALL PEOPLES OF ALL COUNTRIES ON THE SAME FOOTING AS WE ARE HERE IN AMERICA."

JOSEPHUS DANIELS, Secretary of the Navy—first Christian gentleman to be invited to the Exposition on July 8th.

He talked to representatives of the 27 at body of Methodist Minute Men who represent an enrollment of over 65,000—men, women and children—on the part of great bodies of earnest and fearless fighting men, completed by these Methodist Minute Men—and he also made the magnificent display of exhibits that illustrate the ironcladness with which Methodist Missionaries perform their "warfare" and humanities in foreign lands.

Oh, readers, this Centenary Celebration opens wide the door to you to get a clearer and surer grip on your own humanity.

You need the human lesson it will teach you as well as the intellectual treat that it will give you.

See it before it closes its gates on Sunday evening, July 13th.

Why We Are Interested

THE PEOPLE of the United States are very much interested in the welfare of the people of Europe, whether they realize it or not. To talk about our staying at home, and attending to our own business, and allowing Europeans to attend to their own affairs, sounds very well, but it isn't very well.

In this country we produce more than we can consume of nearly all necessities of life. If our people are kept busy in mills and factories and mines, and upon the farms, they soon pile up stores and that must be disposed of abroad. If the people abroad cannot buy them the supplies must rot in the warehouses or remain in the earth, and labor be idle. If the people of Europe do not have employment, they can not buy our surplus, they will have nothing with which to pay for it. So it is to our interest that the people of any European nation prosper, and thereby have the means of paying us for our supplies.

In order for the Europeans to prosper, they must work. They must make something they can exchange for the goods we have to sell, or which they can sell for money to pay us with. So it comes right down to this: We must do all we can to see that the people of stricken Europe go to work at profitable employment. That is, we must give them all the encouragement we can. We must help them to get upon their feet whenever it is possible. We must assist them in maintaining order in their respective countries, for without order there can be no production of wealth. We may prate all we please about our independence of the rest of the world, but the truth is our own prosperity depends upon the prosperity of Europe—and upon peaceable governments existing in Europe.

An Impressive Moment

RETURNING from Europe with official copies of the treaty and league covenant, Woodrow Wilson comes to render account to the people of the United States. He will first submit the complete draft to the Senate of the United States and then will go to the people to submit the record of his stewardship.

This is an impressive moment in American history. Breaking all precedent and leaving the center of the stage to opponents who would dare anything to break him and defeat him, the President went to Europe to see that the sacrifices of the Americans who fought and died, who suffered and served, were not in vain. He went to Europe because the most important thing in the history of the world was to be enacted there. No matter how important affairs were on this side during that time, they were indeed insignificant in comparison with the opportunity for world peace that is to endure throughout all time.

There is no doubt in the mind of any fair man that world peace and the banding together of the free nations must come now if it is to come at all. In all those long months of deliberations no man toiled harder, tried harder or more faithfully to bring about an agreement that was just to all peoples on earth. And during every minute of that time every proponent of imperialism and reaction in the world was out to destroy the great President of the United States and to defeat and discredit him and his aims.

So we say with our hearts filled with gratitude, pride and love, "Welcome home, Mr. President. America is grateful; America is proud of him who has placed the true ideals of this wonderful land before all of the peoples of the world. The mothers of the world do and the mothers of the future, will bless you. Generations yet unborn will revere your name and your work. You have brought to practical application the truest spirit of Americanism from the Home of the Brave and the Land of the Free."

An Echo of the Past

THE Ohio State Journal, of Columbus, under the heading "News Our Grandfathers Read," prints this from its files of June 13, 1855:

"The clerk of the market this morning seized a lot of butter of light weight, sold it at auction, and put the proceeds into the city treasury."

"We have heard a great deal of complaint on account of the manner in which meat is weighed in the markets. We know we have the most honest butchers in the state, but in the hurry and excitement of busy market morning, when the stalls are crowded with customers, mistakes are apt to occur, especially with the patent spring scales. It has been suggested that if a pair of standard scales were placed in the market in a convenient place in charge of the clerk, it would be satisfactory to many suspicious people who pay 12 1-2 cents per pound for beef, to know that they have good weight."

And so the people of our grandfather's day were no more honest than they are at this time. They were just as prone to resort to sharp practices and to flimflamming, even if the paper of the long ago does attempt to take care of them by attributing it to the "hurry and excitement of a busy market morning."

And the implied wait at the high cost of living—that sounds familiar, also. Twelve and a half cents a pound for beef! When a fellow paid such outrageous price—that is what the writer of the paragraph noted, meant—when a fellow was compelled to pay such an outrageous price for beef, he ought to receive as many pounds as he paid for. We quite agree, even at this late date, but if we were paying only twelve and a half cents a pound for beef we would be in such a hurry to get it home we wouldn't stop to see if the butcher had short-weighted us.

HAPPY THOUGHT. Don't throw glass in the streets.

We suppose that some of the fellows over in Germany, who are anxious to get permission to marry the German girls, will bring 'em back and brag on 'em as among the best spitters-on-prisoners you ever saw in your life!

The world is certainly getting better—the Cincinnati Reds are still second in the National League and here it is the middle of the season.

Our telegraph editor says he wonders what the guys that used to make cork-screws are going to do for a living now.

GOOD EVENING: There is an old saying that money talks, but we wonder if "hush money" doesn't sometimes refuse to be hushed on.

The Times' Family Doctor

WHY "NO STAMMERING HERE" IS A RULE THAT HELPS

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D. (John Hopkins University)

Stammering is a spasmodic effort at speech which is incompletely carried out—abortive. Some scientists confuse this with stuttering, which, to be sure, is a closely allied disability. A stutterer is one who hesitates and repeats words over and over again the first of the syllables or words spoken. He is usually an exaggerated stammerer.

The stammerer or stammerer, according to Prof. Ernest Tomkins, who has devoted so much time and study to these unpleasant manifestations, can be cured by a simple edict, "Stammering prohibited on the premises."

When the stammerer begins to speak, any new conscious speech efforts will bring about an intensification of the disorder. There seems to be no advantage in efforts to teach the stammerer to talk and to breathe. This practice has, therefore, been abandoned by many; so has the old method of emphasizing the vowel.

How It "Works." It is held by many that stammering is a conscious effort at speech misdirected by self-consciousness. The more the victim attempts or is encouraged to observe and pay attention over-consciously to his speech disability, the more he is apt to stammer.

Prof. Tomkins, while he offers no specific observations to confirm his assertion, claims that stammering is inherited, although it may skip one or two generations. That is to say, it appears to be a "recessive" and not a dominant factor in heredity.

Children who stammer ought to be taken away from all danger to themselves or others, but not in the manner usually suggested. That is to say, they must not be removed from school, as some authorities recommend.

The stammering child or pupil in the school should be required to write his recitations, and should be enjoined from talking on all school property—except when he talks fluently. This he does when wholly unembarrassed.

It is utter nonsense to think as a few do, that such restrictions of speech, even when extended to the home, as they necessarily must be, would render the stammerer dumb.

Since it is really an intermittent speech disorder, this fear is altogether unfounded. His difficulty is only with sounds, which he fears. When he has the alternative of writing or remaining silent, he no longer has any fear. He loses his self-consciousness and worry of possible embarrassment.

Safeguarding Others.

Obviously what he says will henceforth be said fluently. He does not have the eternal sensation of a hidden sword of Damocles, held aloft by a hair.

Prof. Tomkins suggests wisely that letters must be made imperative with penalties for infraction, because the slightest sign of stammering may work untold injury to innocent children who hear it. Important as it is to correct the stammerer's impediment the correction is secondary to the danger of spreading the infirmity to others.

Prohibition of stammering at or near the inception of this trouble is almost a certain remedy. The time to check this habit is when it begins. To prohibit it in infancy is a remedy. No other important aid.

Stammering is so easily extirpated in the home or kindergarten.

Answers to Health Questions.

For three months the nail on my third finger has caused me much worry. It has worn down on one side, and every little while my finger seems to break out above it. Kindly advise me what to do.

MR. WORRIED
Paint your finger with a little of the following:
Hexamethylenamine ..... 30 grains
Acid borie ..... 30 grains
Colloidal ..... 1 ounce

Kindly advise me what to do for stammering. C. K.
Kindly write an article on epilepsy. J. B. J.
I shall be glad to do so.

Please tell me what causes me to feel dizzy after drinking milk or eating cheese. MRS. R. S.

It is not imagination. It is a form of anaphylaxis, which is susceptibility to particular foods or proteins.

Please tell me what to do for freckles. A. W.

Freckles are often a sign of health and inheritance. Commonly, no matter what is used, freckles usually return, and if the skin peels it is better to stop the use of all remedies, because more harm may be done than benefit received. As a trial, try a little of 1 dram salicylic acid to 1 ounce of alcohol.

Kindly advise me what to do for epilepsy.

Epilepsy of a special kind is cured by surgical measures. Much help comes to others at times from the use of bromides, especially the effervescent promide tablets in water. Plenty of water should be drunk, three quarts a day. The intestines should be always kept active. No muscular work or housework may be done, and no meat usually eaten. The diet is not essential other than the avoidance of glutinous and excesses or the artificial stimulation of tobacco and other drugs.

Kindly advise me what to do for painful joints. MRS. G.

Foods may cause painful joints. If so, avoid, sugar, starches, sweets, pastries, cakes, potatoes and bread. It may also be due to an infection at some point elsewhere. The throat, nose, intestines or other parts may have germs in them. If so, salicylic acid or hexamethylenamine may be tried.

If you will send a stamped self-addressed envelope with your query repeated I will be glad to answer your questions.

Dr. Hirshberg will answer questions to readers of this paper on medical hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest, letters will be answered personally, if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. L. K. Hirshberg, in care of this office.

Short Stories of the Buckeye State

AN EARLY OHIO ROAD JOB

For some reason graft in road building has always been notorious. One of the most pronounced cases of the kind of the old Columbus and Sandusky turnpike which was projected by a private company in 1826 and completed two years later. The federal government, the state and the traveling public were all jobbed in the enterprise.

It was the first commercial connection of the capital city with the lake shore, and the company for this reason readily interested both governments in the project. The incorporation act bears the date of January 31, 1826. There were 26 incorporators, these seven being Franklin county men: John Kilbourne, Abram J. McDowell, Henry Brown, William Neil, Orange Johnson, Oris Parish and William Brotherton. The capital was $100,000, in shares of $100 each.

Congress appropriated into trust of the state for the benefit of the company 49 sections of land containing 31,840 acres, along the route of the road, reserving for itself the alternate sections. The estimated cost of the construction was $81,680, and the actual cost $74,736. That few and small. The construction, everybody supposed, would be of stone, but as a matter of fact, it was only a dirt road when finished, and excepting the summer season was hardly passable.

There were vigorous protests against the company all along the line and the state appointed Nathaniel Merion to investigate the matter. He reported that the pike had been constructed according to proposed plans and that the company was entitled to establish its toll-gates, which was done. This did not ally popular feeling and the legislature in February, 1843, by act cancelled the company's charter. This left the owners of the road without authority to collect toll.

By this time the federal government began to take notice of matters. Congress wanted to know how the proceeds of the land it had given had been used. The matter was placed in the hands of the attorney general of Ohio, then Henry Stanberry, and he found that the company had not been fairly dealt with in the cancellation of its charter, but the legislature stood by its guns and the annulment stood. All parties interested in the enterprise seem to have lost through it.

REALISTIC
"This snowstorm painting is very fine, indeed," said the critic to the artist. "It almost makes me feel cold to look at it."
"Yes, it must be realistic," admitted the other. "A fellow got into my studio in my presence, looked at the picture and unconsciously put on my fur overcoat before he went out."

OUR BED-TIME STORY FOR TINY TIMES-DEMOCRAT FOLKS

As the children and their friends walked around the city of Rheims they saw large gangs of men working to clean up the streets which had been covered with wreckage from the houses demolished by the big guns during the war.

Other men were trying to patch up some of the houses good enough to live in.

In some places the children saw boys and girls and their parents living in one room, all that was left of their home.

Jack and Jane couldn't figure out how the children could be so happy when their homes had been destroyed.

Then they happened to think that these little folks had been able at least to remain with their mothers when driven from their homes and that some of them even had their fathers with them again, while Jeanne had lost both her father and her mother and her home.

Some of the boys that Jack saw were playing war, and Jack envied them because they had real rifles, machine guns and other equipment for their games. In one vacant space he saw a group of boys who had built a fort around the cannon and were holding it against the enemy—another group of boys.

Jack was "just dying" to join in the game and Captain Brave could see it in his face, so when a minute later one of the boys surprised Jack by asking in English if he wanted to play, Captain Brave nodded his head yes, when Jack looked at him.

The rest of the folks sat beneath a big tree and watched the game of war. Jack was given command of one of the regiments of one of the armies. He had four or five little French lads for soldiers, including the one who could speak English. Of course you know the French children are taught to be very polite at all times and that is why the little French boys told Jack he could be Captain, even though they felt they knew a lot more about being a Captain than Jack did.

The battle waged for many minutes. Jack was with the army which was trying to capture the fort. His men had been trying to find some way to get into the fort from the rear without the other army suspecting them. Finally Jack had the bright idea of sending one of his boys alone to go way around to the back of the fort to find out the best way to get in.

Wanting to make the battle very realistic, Jack told the boy to take Booh along his arms and send him back with a message as soon as the secrets of the fort had been obtained.

The boy and Booh were gone for a long time. Jack wondered why Booh had not returned with a message tied around his neck. That's the way the dogs helped at the front during the war.

Jack happened to think that there was something missing in the war—that they ought to have a hospital and nurses and everything to take care of the wounded, for every now and then some of the boys pretended to be hurt. So he called a halt in the battle until he arranged for a hospital and nurses. And who do you suppose ran the hospital and played nurses? Well I will have to wait until tomorrow to tell you.

INJURED BY FALL FROM WATERWAGON

ST. MARYS, July 10.—Fred Schwabrow, residing on S. Walnut street, New Bremen, had the misfortune yesterday morning to fall from a water wagon and had his shoulder and head, bruised rendering him unconscious for some time. Mr. Schwabrow was driving a team for Henry Vanderhorst had gone to the canal near the mill where he was to fill a tank with water to be used in threshing at the Vanderhorst place. Schwabrow fell to the ground striking his head on the wheel and struck the road, bruising his shoulder. A doctor was summoned at once, who conveyed him to his home. He was unconscious for several hours. He still complains of severe headaches and had a restless night and is not able to be up.

The first new wheat of the season was purchased Tuesday, by a local miller. The wheat failed to turn out as well as was expected, the heads not having been well filled. In some instances, a large number of the wheat grains were dried up, due possibly to the extremely hot weather during June. It is estimated, however, that as a general average, the wheat will yield between 20 and 30 bushels per acre.

Over 82 bushels of wheat were threshed, Tuesday from a little better than three acres on the L. H. Molescher place, just northwest of the city limits on the Fort Wayne pike. The yield will average about 25 bushels to the acre in this instance. The threshing machine went today to the Wm. Dickman residence on the Sturgeon farm, Celina road, where quite a quantity of what was ready for the machine.

THE "BLUES" Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people who worry, are despondent, have spells of mental depression, feel blue and are often melancholy believe these conditions are due to outside influences over which they have little or no control. Nearly always, however, they can be traced to an internal source—acid-stomach. No one is to be wondered at. Acid-stomach, beginning with such well defined symptoms as indigestion, belching, heartburn, bloating, etc., will not be checked, in time it affects the nervous system and the victim of the "blues" and gloomy thoughts. There is a marvelous modern remedy called EATONIC that brings you back, wreck your health, make you a miserable man, and a victim of the "blues" and gloomy thoughts. Get rid of it! Don't let acid-stomach hold you back, wreck your health, make you a miserable man, and a victim of the "blues" and gloomy thoughts. Get rid of it! ## WAPAKONETA

SMALL TOWNSHIP
RICH IN WEALTH

WAPAKONETA, July 10.—Noble township, usually considered the smallest subdivision in the county, being the only township in the county that does not afford a small town or community of some name—a township seat, as "twere, has returned for taxation approximately a half-million dollars worth of personal property for taxation. This, however, includes the township and the several school districts from Logan, Moulton and St. Marys townships attached to its taxing districts. William Hertenstein is the township assessor.

Bonds, aggregating $175,000, for the purpose of carrying on the reconstruction of the Van Wert, River Road, Lutterbeck and German townships roads, all in the western portion of the county, have been rejected by the Industrial Commission of the state, and the Commissioners have set July 26, as the date on which they will receive sealed bids for same. These bonds bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent and mature in five years.

A "craw dad" feast and picnic was enjoyed by a group of men along the banks of the Auglaize river Tuesday afternoon, July 8. The party went in automobiles to a grove on the Herman Weber farm east of the city where they spent the afternoon in and out of the river, indulging in the lowly art of fishing "dads," swimming and athletic sports.

W. J. Howell, contractor on a stretch of street paving on East Spring street, St. Marys, estimates that the work will be completed in another three weeks, weather permitting. Three carloads of brick are on hand to start the finishing work. Unusually quick work in securing materials in helping toward getting the work completed.

STRIKE SITUATION
PRACTICALLY SAME

Nothing new has developed in the linemen of the Ohio Electric company strike, according to information received this afternoon from officials of the company and Raymond Cleary, representing the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Cars on the Ohio Electric system are running on scheduled time, and no interference has been offered by the strikers, who are at present either working or seeking work elsewhere pending a settlement which is expected soon.

Advices from the company's offices in Springfield to the effect that the strike is not felt in that division. Cleary this afternoon announced he is any minute expecting communication from the cities on their Ohio Electric system, stating linemen of those places have gone out in sympathy of the Lima workmen.

VAN WERT

HUNTS FOR WIFE
AND LITTLE SON

VAN WERT, July 10.—Telling a pitiable story of the abduction of his wife and little 6-year-old son from home at Knightstown, Ind., Thomas Carter, junk dealer of that city, passed through Van Wert in search of his missing family and seeking the aid of officers in finding them.

Carter stated to Sheriff Selis that the abduction took place on June 14 and that he has been attempting to trace his wife and child ever since then. He stated that before leaving home, Mrs. Carter sold all the household goods and forced her boy to accompany her, altho the little fellow did not want to leave. Carter accuses a man named Nick Rennald with persuading his wife to leave and believes that she is now in company with him.

Trial of the case of Frank Adam against Mike and Carl Oberberger of Jackson township was started before Squire Manship Wednesday afternoon. Adams charged the men with assault and battery. As soon as this trial is completed Adam will be tried on a charge of the same nature filed by his wife whom he is alleged to have threatened to kill. Trial of the cases was set for this morning but was delayed while Adam secured the services of an attorney.

Mrs. Eli Sited of North Wayne street was fined $3 and costs by Mayor Gamble in police court on a charge of disturbing the peace to which she entered a plea of guilty.

An important meeting of the Van Wert County Poland China Breeders association will be held in the county agent's office in the court house, Van Wert, Tuesday evening, July 15, at 8:30 o'clock. The object for this meeting is to complete all arrangements for the Poland China Pig Club sale which will be held during the week of the fair.

LARGE THEATRE TO BE BUILT IN LIMA

W. L. Russell Also to Add
Two Stories to Downtown Building

W. L. Russell, Lima oil magnate and financier, announced Thursday evening several large transactions of a business nature which have just been completed by him. Probably one of the most interesting is the announcement that the Gus Sun & Keith vaudeville interests had decided to lease a vaudeville house with a seating capacity of 2,200 which he plans to build on the site of the Thornton Mitchell homestead, corner of Market and West street, which he recently purchased for $75,000.

It is planned to build the vaudeville theatre on the north side of the property, with a lobby extending south to Market street. The Keith Sun interests first considered leasing the present Orpheum site, but later decided in favor of the other location. Russell yesterday leased the old Braun saloon site, on the northwest corner of High and Main streets to a large chain store corporation, it is stated. No other details were made public, other than he plans to add several additional stories to the building. Later it is also planned to add two stories to the Empire hotel building, which is owned by Russell.

FARM HANDS SOUGHT.
NORWALK.—Huron county farmers are facing the greatest labor crisis since the Civil war, with a record-breaking wheat crop to be harvested. The growers are unable to obtain 25 per cent of the required number of farm workers, although as high as $5 a day is being paid.

AMUSEMENTS

"Hard Boiled", a clever comedy of stage life with Dorothy Dalton in the leading role, opened at the Faust this afternoon. This pictured story of a smalltown opera troupe and the residents of a little village in Arizona is a delightful and refreshing feature that seems bound to continue as a welcome relief after the continuous strain of eternal triangle pictures that we have come to expect. It is different and out-of-the-ordinary, a mixture of comedy and drama, that will surely please.

Dorothy Dalton plays the leading role, that of the musical comedy queen, to perfection. Much of the success of the film is due to her good work, her keen understanding of the requirements of the part and her ability to register all her scenes strongly. C. W. Mason does excellently with the role of the opera troupe's leading man. As the money lending deacon Billy Courtwright is seen to be a decided villain. Walter Hires is mighty convincing as the small town rube and Gertrude Claire charms as Aunt Tiny Colvin. A number of important minor roles have been well filled.

Other features of the bill include new Prizma pictures in color and Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven in a new Capitol comedy, "In a Pinch."

CHILD CONSERVATION LEAGUE.

The July meeting of the Child Conservation league was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Schrader, of West High street, on Wednesday afternoon. Because of many people being out of town, there was only one of the papers given as planned. That was the one on "Overcoming Hereditary Taints by Training and Environment." This was given by the hostess herself, who added to her paper a brief discussion of her own personal observations in child culture. She gave some very interesting experiences. This was followed by a general discussion, which brought out many points of interest.

A little impromptu program took the place of the regular one planned, and Miss Helen Hoekner played two Chopin numbers, and preceding her playing gave a sketch of his life and his works. Her manner of speaking and delivering her talk was as pleasing as her musical numbers.

Miss Elizabeth Schrader, daughter of the house, read two charming numbers, one a musical reading accompanied by Miss Hoekner.

Mrs. E. R. Leeto gave a very interesting talk of the life works of Paul Lawrence Dunbar, who showed that the speaker was well informed on her subject. After reading two of his works, "Little Brown Baby" and the Bear story, Mrs. Leeto took up the discussion of her red-dy in connection with this remarkable poet and showed how he had inherited his genius from his mother's side of the house.

The hostess served a dainty summer collation at the conclusion of the program.

Nothing has been said concerning an August meeting as it is altogether doubtful whether there will be enough members in town at that time, but the announcement will be made later.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cook, of West North street, have received word of the arrival in this country of their son, Raymond, who has been overseas for the past two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wheeler, and Miss Dorothy and Bert, of North Pierce street, have gone to their summer home at Orchard Island.

Mrs. John R. Carnes and daughter Kathryn Ann and Mrs. J. J. Wyre, have gone to their summer home at Oden, Michigan.

DINNER.

Fragrant with roses and sweet peas was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Means, of South Pierce Street, when on Tuesday evening they entertained with dinner, several of their intimate friends in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gray, now of Minneapolis, formerly of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Gray are visiting with friends in Lima and the surrounding towns, for several weeks. All the women present were members of a former well known club, the Twentieth Century Cooking Club, which entertained semi-monthly with a dinner for their husbands. The club was made up of people from all the surrounding towns.

At the dinner on Tuesday evening, covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrod, of New Hampshire, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Means, of Harrod; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Means, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neff, of Waynesfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ewing, of Vapakoneta.

QUIET WEDDING

Miss Alice Amelia Brown, and Andrew Edward Thompson were married at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the home of Rev. W. C. Spayde. There were no attendants, and the single ring ceremony was used.

Mrs. Thompson has been living at the home of the J. R. Marshall's on West High street for some time. Mr. Thompson is a resident of New Castle, Pennsylvania, and at 2:07 Thursday afternoon, the happy pair left for their new home in that city.

The bride was attractively gowned in white georgette for the ceremony, and immediately after changed to a traveling suit of tan pongee, with hat and shoes to match. She wore a corsage of white roses.

J. T. Rohe, of Danville, Illinois, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John Gulman, of North Metcalf street, for a few days.

EUCLID CLUB

Miss Catherine Conway, of East Findlay street, was hostess to the members of her card club on Wednesday evening. Euclid was the diversion of the evening, and at the conclusion of the games those holding high score were presented with dainty gifts. There are several guests in addition to the members, and the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Baird, of West High street, have had as their guests for the past week, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Reese of Toledo, who have returned to their home.

Mrs. Emily Dorsey and Miss Florence Dorsey, of the Kail apartments, have gone to Lakeside where they will remain for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Arganbright, of North Charles street, have as their house-guest Mrs. Arganbright's sister Miss Luella Thomas, of Mechanicsburg.

LUNCHEON.

Mrs. John James' house guest, Miss Ethel Harvey, of Cleveland was paid a pretty compliment on Wednesday when Mrs. Clem Crow, of South Baxter street, had a few friends in for luncheon. It was a very informal affair and consequently one of the most enjoyable. The dining room was made attractive with bowls of flowers, which added greatly to the daintiness of the party, and the faultlessly served repast. Besides the honor guest, Miss Harvey, and the hostess, covers were laid for Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. Helen McClure and Mrs. John James.

Miss Helen Hayes, of Tiffin, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Herrett, of South Elizabeth street.

W. H. M. S. GRACE

Exceptionally interesting was the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Grace Church, on Wednesday afternoon at the church, when Mrs. Elmer Barth was in charge of the program. "Indian Work" was the subject for discussion, and was ably taken care of. Mrs. Lois Hoffman sang.

At this meeting the society was divided into circles, and a chair man placed over each circle. Each circle will then put over a membership contest for the next several months.

The meeting of next month, that of the second week in August, will be a joint meeting with the young people of the church and will be in charge of Mrs. C. H. Bonardus.

Seen In the Shops

In these hot days when everything gets soiled more easily than at any other time of year, net as a material for neckwear is the most popular. Of course we still are able to buy the muslin collars and gilet, with their adorable ruchings and ruffles of organdie, but their crispness does not stand up well under the perspiration of warm weather. In such a respect, net is ideal; it has no crispness to lose, so it looks dainty under all temperatures.

A practical gilet is of net, pleated and hemstitched and is defined at the waist line by a white ribbon of moire with a black plicated edge. Another beautiful one is fashioned of one-inch rows of net combined with equally wide rows of exquisite embroidery. Both these were collarless. Cascades of creamery lace set upon a foundation of net and continuing to form a round collar, form another lovely vestee.

D. A. R. PICNIC

Quite one of the most enjoyable of picnics was featured at the home of Mrs. P. C. Collins, "Collinwood" on Wednesday afternoon, when fifty members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, gathered about three o'clock and spent the time informally for the next few hours. At 5:30 a delicious picnic supper was served on the green at the rear of the house where the grounds are so beautiful. At this time of the year, the holly hocks are at their best and interspersed with wild roses made a charming and altogether delightful environment for such a truly enjoyable party. Guests were seated at one long table, which was laden with all sorts of goodies.

Not enough can be said of the affair. But since there are no guests at the meetings of the organization, the members get to know each other very well, which intimacy goes to make a successful party.

The P. A. Kahle's of West Market are spending some time at Orchard Island this summer.

Mrs. Margaret Kiely, of Lafayette, Indiana, is visiting her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kiely, of West Wayne street.

Dear Miss Fairfax: When I was between the ages of 16 and 17 years I became acquainted with a young man from this city and went around with him for more than a year, always enjoying myself with him. But being young and thoughtless I turned him down for the reason that he was still in school and could not show me the good times that many other young men could. He answered my last letter in a very courteous way and said that there were no hard feelings and that perhaps we could meet again some time. I mailed a card to him in return to let him know that I felt the same way. Since I have grown older I can look back and see what a terrible mistake I have made and I regret it very much, for he was a real gentleman in every way. Do you suppose there is any way that I can let him know that I see my mistake and yet do it in modest, unassuming way?

Ans.—I suppose you deserve to have a little punishment for your cold heartedness several years ago, but youth deserves forgiveness, I guess. Perhaps the easiest way to get in touch with your friend would be to send him a card, when you go on your vacation this summer letting him know that you remember him and are interested in him. Of course, there is no assurance that you will get an answer, perhaps he has picked out another girl, since you heard from him last.

Dear Miss Fairfax: (1) Is photograph writing one of the highest paid professions in the world? Can all races and classes of people get the same amount of money for their work if they are good writers?

Ans.—Moving picture companies do not care about the race or class of the person sending in the manuscripts, what they are interested in is the quality of the photoplay. Some of the photoplay writers are very highly paid; others are not.

(2) What is a good way to rid a bedroom of mosquitoes? Ans.—The way is to keep the bedroom well screened so that the pests cannot get in.

(3) Who played the part of Eva Brent in "The Master Mystery?" Of Delux Dora? Of Paul Balcom? Grouch. Ans.—I do not know. You can find out by writing the B. C. Rolfe productions, 18 East 41st street, New York.

I am not answering your other questions, because I do not consider them worthy of answers.

Dear Miss Fairfax: My only desire is to become a star in the movie world. I know I will have to begin at the bottom of the ladder and work my way up. But I would like to enter one of the best companies and would like to know the names and addresses of several of the high-class companies with whom I could correspond. I am 24 and since this has always been my desire I think I am now old enough to know my vocation.

Ans.—Of course we would all like to be a movie star, wear the beautiful gowns, have the thrilling experiences and earn the large amount of money that we have read and heard about. But we can't. I am glad that you realize that you would have to begin at the bottom, but do you know that very few of the applicants are even accepted as extras and that only one extra in 1000 ever progresses far enough to become a member of a moving picture stock company? Of course I could give you the names and addresses of some good companies, but you will never get a position with a company by writing to them about it, especially if you send them as botchy-looking a letter as that you sent me. If you are willing to take the chance and to stand the turn-downs, I would advise you to get these names and addresses from a moving picture magazine and start out on your round of personal interviews.

A Chance to Live

(By Zoe Beckley)

THE CHASM BRIDGED.

Aunt Margaret, spending almost every leisure hour at the Harbans and watching her niece closely in the days following the fire, saw her broken condition. It was plain from the nerve-quick that came at the slamming of a door, the undefined fear in her eyes, her trembling hands, that she was unable to carry the burden of the family. She saw Anne was trying frantically to control her pained faculties, to clear her mind and find her body for fight.

The heart of Aunt Maggie rebelled to see her being ground between the millstones of implacable necessity for earning, and the inability to stretch her meager equipment to the coming point. When Anne came home night after night and tossed her frayed little list of "Help Wanted" advertisements discouragedly onto the table, the older woman knew what despair was behind the twisted smile, the misted eyes, the effort to choke down food.

"I don't know what I'm going to do, Aunt Maggie," whispered Anne one evening after supper. "I've been to thirteen places today!"

"They won't give me work because I haven't experience. And I can't get experience if they won't give me work."

"I walked in Wall street and saw hundreds of girls with jobs. How did they get the first one? How does a girl begin? And those well-dressed men—who look as though they'd never been hungry in their lives—going in and out of their offices, talking and laughing? I felt like going up to one of them and screaming, 'Mister—you've got everything and I've got nothing, give me work! There must be something I can do, only give me a chance only let me in!'

Into Margaret Bailey's mind a sudden idea seemed to come. "Listen, Nannie," she said, the color coming into her grave, sweet face. "I have a plan. It's for us all. But promise me you'll do your share of it just as I say—without an argument."

"It's some new sacrifice, dey—I see it coming," said Anne warily, her cheek against her aunt's. "You've done enough already. You're keeping things going for us as it is." Anne caught her lip between her teeth. She didn't dare trust herself to say more.

Her old conception of Aunt Maggie as the personification of opulence and independence had faded along with other childhood illusions. She was still a dispenser of gifts, an angel of goodness. But in place of the enviable goddess of freedom was a lonely, self-sacrificing woman, the love of whose heart and the work of whose hands was poured out for another's home, another's children.

"Promise," the older woman was saying with gentle command. "Promise me, Nannie. When you were little you always did as I told you."

Annie nodded uneasily, saying nothing.

"Well, you're going for two—whole—fat—weeks—into the country," went on her aunt, making emphatic pauses between words, "to a farm I know. And I'm coming here—to borrow your little bed—and look after things—till you come bounding home with your cheeks puffed out and your eyes bright—all ready to—TAKE THAT JOB IN AN OFFICE!"

"Aunt Mog!" Annie came quickly round in front of her, holding her by the elbows at arm's length. "You know I can't do it! You sha'n't!"

"But you promised. You know we believe in keeping promises." Aunt Margaret cut in. "Now make your old auntie happy dear! It'll save me money coming here." (To be continued)

FRIDAY—"Robinson Crusoe," by Daniel Defoe.

TODAY—"Les Miserables," by Victor Hugo.

HUGO

VICTOR HUGO, 1802-1885

Other men of his time had such an international reputation. Swinburne hailed him as "the greatest man born since the death of Shakespeare."

His most famous novel, "Les Miserables," was published in 1862, but he had been working on it for 15 years. Thirty years before had appeared his first great prose romance, "Notre Dame," and the third, "Toilers of the Sea," came out in 1865.

From his youth until his death, on May 22, 1885, Hugo wrote rapidly—poems, plays and novels. No

LES MISERABLES

By VICTOR HUGO

(Condensation by Nathan Haskell Dole.)

About the time of the French revolution, Jean Valjean of La Brie, a day-laborer, earned a scanty living for his sister and her seven children. One time, when the family was starving, he stole a loaf of bread, was caught and condemned to the galleys for five years. Twice he attempted to escape and failed. He was a convict for 19 years. When he was discharged in 1815 he was wretched, silent, chaste, ignorant and ferocious; his ferocious nature had been nurtured in a society, but he had taught himself how to read and he had thought.

Both of hunger and cold at the night, he came to Monsieur Bienvenu, a priest, who was in the foothill of the Alps. He was offered a place, but in the night he stole some of the bishop's silver plate, was caught as he made off and was brought back to the good bishop who, with a smile, assured him that the articles were not stolen but given. Adding two silver candlesticks, the bishop said to him: "Take them and become a honest man. My brother, you do not belong to evil, but to good. I have brought your soul to you. As he fled, he yielded to one last temptation to do wrong; he took of being the former convict. The mayor freed Fantine. She supposed he was the cause of her misfortunes and spat in his face. He took the affront meekly and investigated her complaint. She was ill of consumption and he provided for her and promised to look out for her child. About the same time the police arrested another man who three former convicts swore was the missing Jean Valjean. Jean Valjean's conscience would not allow an innocent person to be punished in his place. Surmounting extraordinary difficulties, he went to Arras, where the trial took place, and just as the judge was condemning the wrong man, he confessed he was the missing convict that had robbed the bishop and the hurdy-gurdy boy.

The judge let him go; but Javert was implacable and apprehended was lodged in jail, but having enormous strength, he broke out and returned to his house to secure his great fortune. He had time to hide his money in the haunted forest of Montfermeil, but was captured once more and sent to the galleys for life. Nine months later at Toulon he broke his chain and saved the life of a sailor, who was hanging head down from the topmast of a ship, but he himself either fell or jumped off from the spar and was reported drowned. The Battle of Waterloo had taken place and the Thénadiers, who had been guilty of robbing the dead on the fatal field, kept a wretched inn at Montfermeil. They treated Cosette. Now eight years old, with great cruelty. Christmas, 1823 was the climax of her wretchedness; she was sent after dark to fetch water from a spring in the dreadful forest. A poorly dressed stranger, passing, carried her heavy bucket. At the tavern he protected her from her mistress' threatened punishment, and the next morning he paid Thénadier 1500 francs and took Cosette to Paris, where he occupied a tumble-down habitation just outside of the city: the gloomiest place in all the gloomy boulevard. By day ugly, at twilight lugubrious, and at night sinister. He thought himself secure there but his benevolence made him conspicuous, and the old care-taker, being full of envy and uncharitableness, grew suspicious of her lodger.

One day he saw Javert. He took Cosette and again fled. But Javert was on his track. Only he dumfounded at Javert's strength and by his colossal strength did he escape by climbing over a high wall. He found himself in the garden of the convent of the Petit Picpus, where worked Pons Fauchelevent, whose life M. Madeleine had saved when he was mayor of M—. The gardener, out of gratitude, got him appointed his assistant by representing him to be his brother. Cosette was taken into the convent school. She grew up into a charming girl; beauty suddenly came to her like the blossoms to a cherry tree in April, and Jean Valjean, happy in loving her as his daughter, as his granddaughter, as the only woman he had ever loved, guarded her as a sacred treasure.

He had good reason to be wary, for the Thénadiers had come to Paris and joined a band of robbers; and Javert never forgot. He had severe desperate encounters with them. On the one side outlaws; on the other undeviating law personified. He took part in the abortive revolution of 1830 and saved Javert's life, at last winning the admiration of that implacable and fatally honorable man.

But there was one danger from which he could not protect Cosette: the most beautiful thing in the world which nevertheless seemed to him his worst enemy—love.

Baron Marius, the son of a man whom Thénadier had robbed at Waterloo and had incidentally saved from a terrible death, had been turned out of his house by his royalist grandfather and was earning a poor livelihood by literature. He saw her and they met. Their love went through more than the usual vicissitudes. During the insurrection Jean Valjean carried the youth through the mazes of the Paris sewers and brought him desperately wounded to his grandfather's house. The old man relented and consented to the marriage. Jean Valjean gave Cosette a dowry of about 600,000 francs. In order to have a conscience perfectly clear he told his life story to Marius, who, not understanding the grandeur of the spirit that had never done anything but good, allowed him to go away with a broken heart. Thénadier, however, came to the baron to blackmail him and unconsciously revealed what a noble life Jean Valjean had led. Marius, taking Cosette, hastened to the old man's death-bed and gave him one last taste from the cup of happiness. He died in their arms.

Victor Hugo calls "Les Miserables" "a drama in which the hero is the infinite, the second character is Man." It is in reality a melodrama in which are mingled scenes of history, a host of characters from the highest to the lowest, improbabilities which strain one's credulity, a vast amount of rare and curious information on all sorts of subjects, dissertations on philosophy, science, politics, and religion. In treatment of social injustice had a powerful influence on public opinion, not only in France but in every country.

countries. It has been an epoch-making book.

Social Notes

DINNER

Mrs. H. R. Yearwood, will pay a pretty compliment to her charming house guest, Miss Theresa Yearwood of Fort Mead, Florida, when she will have a number of friends to dinner at Elk's Club, in her honor. Lavendar and white is being carried out throughout the entire dinner, the flat table decoration being used. Sweet peas and roses form the basis of the artistry.

Covers will be laid for Mrs. Dudley Bernstein, Mrs. Mark Kolter, Mrs. Frank Sealts, Mrs. Harvey Basinger, Mrs. Ray Taylor, Mrs. Ruth Kerr Hyter, Mrs. Ralph Gensel, Miss Agnes Patterson, Miss Sly Patterson, Miss Helen King, Miss Charlotte Steber, Miss Gail Parmenter, and Miss Marie Sweeney, besides the honor guest and the hostess.

W. H. M. S. TRINITY

The heat of the day was entirely shut out at the home of Mrs. Otis Lippincott, when the Missionary Women's Home Missionary Society of Trinity Church met with her for the afternoon. The large rooms of her country home were completely closed up, which kept everyone quite comfortable. Cooling refreshments were served during the afternoon and all to all the time was spent delightfully.

Mrs. Frank A. Boone, and Mrs. McCabe gave interesting accounts, and talks of different phases of the Centenary, which were listened to eagerly. Mrs. Flos Zartman gave a talk on the "Indian" and Mrs. J. H. Baker sang. Her daughter, Miss Christine Baker, also sang.

The next meeting, or that of August will be held in the church parlors.

Mrs. Paul Bryan, and sons, Paul, Jr., and Charles, of Delphos, are visiting Mrs. Bryan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney, of West McKibben street.

JITSU TAU CLUB

Miss Helen Polser, will be hostess to the members of the Jitsu Tau Club, on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jones, have returned from their wedding trip on the Lakes, and are for the present at the home of Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. E. E. Linn, of the Adgare apartments. Mrs. Jones was until a few weeks ago, Miss Vanna Linn, and her marriage to Mr. Jones took place at the Christ Episcopal Church.

Mr. and Mrs. N. I. Coon and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Whitney, motored to Van Wert on Wednesday evening, where they were guests at a banquet given by the Lumberman's Association of that district.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Coffee, of North Metcalf street, are announcing the birth of a daughter, on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Coffee was formerly Miss Mabel Robe.

Mr. and Mrs. James O'Connor and two children, Margaret Mary and Cecilia, of Toledo, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Burns, of West McKibben street, for a few days. The trip was made by motor.

JIM GETS A WARNING

For the first time in many months Jim Brown, South Jackson street, was arraigned in police court on a charge of drunkenness, this morning. Jim pleaded guilty and was presented with a fine of $10. Judge Botkin, however, warned Jim, the fine is of a vacillating variety, and will certainly go up if he is brought in on the same charge again. Jim said a friend gave him the drink, but could not think of the friend's name.

SPEEDER FINED

After pleading guilty to a charge of speeding, when arraigned in police court this morning, Dale Shapell, a soldier, was fined $10.

WOMAN DEAN AT O. S. U.

COLUMBUS, O., July 10.—Miss Elizabeth Conrad who has been teaching in the department of French University of Wisconsin, for two years, has been made dean of women at Ohio State University, the board of trustees announced today. The selection was made at a meeting of the board in Dayton last night. Since the resignation of Dean Caroline Brayfogle a year ago, Mrs. George I. Converse has been acting dean.

J. C. PENNEY CO.—A NATION-WIDE INSTITUTION

"Why We Oppose Closing our Store Thursday Afternoon"

We are a home institution and are firmly established here to develop our business along with the developing of this fast growing city and community. We came to Lima to serve you, not to be served ourselves. We want to give such assistance as is necessary to make this community a better place to live in. We take great pride in the way we treat our employees, they know we have their very interest at heart.

We strive to serve the public in such a way as to make our dealings more pleasant. Always to please the customer is our aim. We instruct our sales people to always be pleasant to the customer, and carry out the great principles that this great organization was founded upon. Do unto others as you would have them do unto you. The J. C. Penney Company stands in business for just such principles and doctrines as this great country of ours stands for in national affairs. We are a free institution. We are here to serve the people at all times to the very best of our ability.

Why We Grow

During the year 1917 the J. C. Penney Company did a business of approximately fourteen million dollars. Last year, 1918, with 197 stores our business increased to twenty-one million dollars, making a gain of seven million dollars in twelve months. And from the way our business has increased during the first six months of this year we hope to do over thirty million during 1919.

It has taken this company only 17 years to accomplish this, the most remarkable growth of its kind in history. What is the reason? Simply by giving better service and extending to the buying public the opportunity to better their condition financially by saving while purchasing the common necessities of life. By giving their customers better values and better service than they could hope to receive elsewhere. By operating their business on a close cash basis, both in buying and selling, lessening the cost of merchandise to YOU, the customer.

Standing ready at all times to make any merchandise right that has proven wrong. By gaining the confidence of the buying public. By having one price absolutely. A price even lower than mail order houses and keeping that price low for every customer every day, whether he be banker, or laborer, child or grown-up.

These things have built the J. C. Penney Co., to where it is today, the greatest institution of its kind in existence, and by adhering to these principles we hope to grow even larger and better until every community in every state is served by a J. C. Penney Company store.

We do not think that it is fair to the farmer and laborers in the surrounding country, to close our place of business for a half day each week, and dictate to them what days they are to do their shopping with us, especially when it is their busy season of the year.

We, as your servants do not think this is the proper time to close our store. If the retail merchants of this city desire to do something to better the condition of their clerks, we advocate closing of all places of business at six o'clock Saturday evening of each week, during the extreme warm weather, that being the time our sales peoples suffer from extreme heat and exertion.

We do not think that closing our store Saturday at 6 o'clock would inconvenience the farmer, laborer and general public as much as closing the stores and locking up an entire city the size of Lima in mid-week.

Yours very truly,

J. C. Penney Co.

Revenue Collector Secures Regulations on Sale...
from Washington

DRUGGISTS RECORDS

Will Have Name and Address of Recipient and Amount Received

TOLEDO, July 10.—Since intoxicating liquors cannot be legally sold in this state, except on prescription of a physician, Revenue Collector Niles has secured regulations from the Bureau at Washington governing the conduct of physicians and druggists in this behalf.

In accordance with these rulings physicians may prescribe wines and liquors, for internal use, or alcohol for external use, but in every case each prescription shall be in duplicate, and both copies be signed in the physician's hand-writing. The quantity prescribed for a single patient at a given time shall not exceed one quart. In no case shall a physician prescribe alcoholic liquors unless the patient is under his constant personal supervision.

MUST CONTAIN ADDRESSES

All prescriptions shall indicate clearly the name and address of the patient, including street and apartment number, the date when written, the condition or illness for which prescribed, and the name of the pharmacist to whom the prescription is to be presented for filling.

The physician shall keep a record in which a separate page or pages shall be allotted each patient for whom alcoholic liquors are prescribed and shall enter therein, under the patient's name and address, the date of each prescription, and the name of the pharmacist filling the same.

Any licensed pharmacist or druggist may fill such prescriptions if his name appears on the prescription in the physician's hand-writing, and if he has qualified as a retail liquor dealer, by the payment of a special tax of twenty-five dollars. No such prescription may be refilled.

KEEP RECORD OF SALES

Druggists filling these prescriptions shall preserve in a separate file
one copy of each prescription filled, and once a month shall transmit to the collector of internal revenue a list showing the names of the physicians, the names of the patients, and the total quantity dispensed to each patient during the month. These lists shall be subjected to immediate examination and frequent review in the collector's office, and wherever there is indication either that a physician is prescribing more than normal quantities or that any patient, through the services of one or more than one physician is procuring more than normal quantities, the collector shall report the fact to the proper court officers.

CIRCUSES COMBINED IN GIGANTIC SHOW

Biggest Features of Ringling Bros. and Barnum Merged Into One

Not since the beginning of tented amusements has there been any event so important to the circus patron as the announcement that the Ringling Brothers' and Barnum &
Bailey circuses have been combined into one mammoth show.

For years the acknowledged grands of the saw dust world these two institutions now comprise the biggest and most remarkable traveling organizations that has yet toured America. For more than two decades the shows, as separate concerns, presented the world's foremost arena artists, the two greatest menageries in existence and all else that comprised the cream of the circus world.
Now the famous showmen have selected the very best of both shows and centralized it in a great, new circus known as the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Shows Combined. This super-circus opened its season at the Madison Square Garden in New York City. It played there for many weeks. A million persons saw its many wonders. There, as elsewhere, it has been proclaimed the most gigantic undertaking in the history of amusements. When the aggregation exhibits here those who visit it will see even more than New York's million saw. For, large as is Madison Square Garden, it could not accommodate all the circus it requires the specially constructed tents used on tour to do that.

Some idea of the immensity of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined may be had when it is stated that there is one trained elephant act that comprises a "quarter of a million pounds of elephants." The giant Theopians finish their number in ensemble with a line of ponderous forms that extend along the length of one entire side of the hippodrome track. That suggests the bigness of the magnificent program.
As for the menagerie it is filled with marvels. In place of two or three giraffes such as have heretofore been offered, the visitor will find eight of these elongated rarities ranging from "youngsters" to giraffes measuring more than twenty feet in height.

The circus horses—outnumbering
all previous records as to totals—have been selected with the greatest care. The street parade is the best and longest ever presented. The men and women stars are the foremost in daring. There are scores of dumb actors. No such number of clowns were ever before carried by any circus. For those who love the pomp and grandeur of pageantry there will be the great introductory display.
This gorgeous review opens the main-tent program at all performances. It is presented with a bigness and wealth of display in keeping with the rest of this—"the most colossal circus ever organized." Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined will exhibit here Saturday, July 26.

CITY HALL THREATENED
YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 16.—A note found Saturday in the doorway of the city hall saying "the municipal building will be destroyed July 28," and signed "Bolshevikism Forever" was made public today by Mayor A. W. Craver who has had the building guarded day and night
since the note was found.

FURNITURE MEN WELL PLEASED

People Are Buying More
and Better Furniture,
Because of Prohibition

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 10.—
Prohibition will bring with it one of the greatest booms in the purchase of house furnishings in the history of the trade, was the assertion of President Bernard A. Mc-Mahone, of Boston, at the recent summer meeting and the annual outing of the House Furnishers'
Association, of New England here.
Statistics have proven that in dry states prohibition has been followed by an era of prosperity for the furniture dealers, President McMahon said, and results have already proven that this will be the result throughout the country after July

1. "People are already buying more and better furniture," he declared,
"and this will be more marked after July 1. Men who have spent $2 and up a week for liquor will turn most of that money into channels that will benefit the home.
This is not a guess, it is a proven fact, and New England furniture dealers must prepare to meet this demand."

"Since the armistice was signed the furniture dealers have done an abnormal business and more will come with the arrival of dry times.
The trouble will come in attempting to keep up with the demands.

Furniture manufacturers are already swamped with orders, some even sold their entire year's output during the first three days of the buying season, while virtually all of them are beyond ordinary capacity of production in an effort to meet the unusual demands.

"The days of cheap furniture are past and the once popular grades of lower priced furniture are no longer in demand. In view of the increasing prices of furniture this is significant. It marks a new order of things, and the arrival of prohibition is the cause. I look for the greatest era of prosperity in the history of furniture."

DEMPSEY ALSO SHAKEN UP
IN SECOND ROUND OF TILT

New Champion Says That Willard in That Session Gave Him an Unpercut That Really Counted

Tom Jones, former manager of Jess Willard, who has just returned from Toledo, brought back an interesting story concerning the contest and one that has not been generally known.

According to Jones, who was with the champion for an hour the next day, Dempsey admits that he was badly hurt in the second round of the contest, when Willard, after taking a most severe bumping in the first round, came back strong for a few moments and rushed the new champion, landing a number of stiff blows, one of which was a short right uppercut to the jaw. Dempsey told Jones that when Willard struck that blow he thought the top of his head had been jarred loose. Dempsey also confessed to Jones that he did not believe he could have continued six rounds. He attributed this to the fact that he had been over-trained.

DAYTON AMERICANS HERE SUNDAY

Extra Fast Contest Promised For Local Fans

(BY JAMES F. BURBA).

All you local baseball bugs, gather around me whilst I spill an earful of dope. You've been journeying out to the old games that have been anything but interesting. That's right, for a struggle that is very loosely played, as these have been, is anything but interesting, isn't it?

Well, this coming Sabbath, you are going to be repaid for those contests you have sat through. You are going to be given an opportunity of witnessing one of the fastest and classiest bunch of ball tossers that have slammed the old pill around this ball ground for many a day. Now, that's good dope.

In looking over prospects, Manager Holloran happened to run across a gang of pastimers from Dayton, who have a reputation of breaking more fences in this state this season than any nine Ping Bodie ever did in a life time. This team travels under the name of the Dayton Americans, and contained performers who have seen service in the majors and some who are fast on their way to the homes of McGraw, Cravath and other big managers.

While this aggregation has not won every game it played this season it has an average that you would have to take out the old pencil to figure up. Probably the most noteworthy game participated in by the Gem City aggregation now the one with the Cincinnati Norwoods. The whole world will tell you the Norwoods are just about the best gathering of ball players this state has ever seen.

In this aforesaid game, the Dayton team did not come out at the heavy end of the score, but it was only one score behind the winners, who to win only had to have one run. That's a game worth mentioning, don't you think?

Now here's our argument, when a team plays a one to nothing game with an aggregation like the Norwoods, the said team is certainly worthy of consideration. The Americans have been making a wonderful record for themselves this year, and it's a cinch they are going to fight hard before they allow their opponents to conquer them.

The entire nine positions of the Gem City aggregation are filled with men who eat, sleep and think baseball. They simply know the game, that's all. And the word "whipped" isn't in their vocabulary. From the time the old gong bangs at the start of the game until the last man goes down in the ninth, they battle, and what we mean is, battle hard.

The locals have been going at a wonderful clip this season, defeating just about everything that has come along. Honestly, pickings have been so easy, Manager Holloran is afraid his aggregation will get lazy and let some team beat 'em, if something don't happen soon.

There are now scheduled to be several changes in the home guard line up. It is rumored in local baseball circles that a new receiver will catch the offerings of either Carroll or Pierce. Just who this lad will be is not made public. All efforts to secure Ralph Herring for the remainder of the season has proven futile.

If when 2:30 o'clock rolls around this coming Sunday, you crank up the old "Oscar II" and chug away to the ball park, and you are not satisfied with the brand of pastime dealt you, the local management will certainly give you back your four-bits. Am I right, Bernie?

May Select Rifle Teams

COLUMBUS, July 10.—Announcement was made today of the plan to select an Ohio rifle team to participate in the national rifle matches at small-arms firing school at Caldwell, N. J., August 4 to 30. The national matches will be held August 5 to 30, inclusive, and will consist of national individual match, national pistol match and national team match.

DEMPSEY MAY BATTLE ENGLISH HEAVYWEIGHT

Followers of fistcuffs admit that we'll have to paddle over to Europe to find an opponent for Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world.

They agree that the next best heavyweight on this side of the pond, whoever he may be, and there is one variance of opinion as to that, is not possessed of enough class to give the champion a heated argument. Hence we look Europeward.

A few months ago it would have been easy enough to pick the outstanding European fighter. We could have said Georges Carpentier and let it go at that, but now there is a new fistie light in the sporting firmament over there. His name is Joe Beckett.

From what we've read of Beckett's ability, it would be out of the line to figure Carpentier, for the new English champion is evidently a tough baby who likes to fight and knows how to handle himself in the ring. In beating Frank Goddard, this Beckett established himself as the king bee of fistcuffs in the realm of Great Britain and next September he will get the chance to show his class against Carpentier. On the other side, critics who have followed both Beckett and Carpentier are pretty well agreed that after the former gets through with Georges in their coming meeting, there will be no need to look farther for an opponent for the Toledo winner.

Beckett is a 200 pounder and stands about six feet in his socks. He is said to be unusually clever for a big fellow, with the ability to use either hand and a lot of weight behind his punches. So it's Beckett they're boosting on the other side, and as they ought to know something about it the fight fans on this side are inclined to give him the benefits of any doubts they may have.

Beckett can earn fair returns for his ring efforts in England and France. He can lay by plenty of coin for a rainy day meeting all comers in his own back yard, or in French cities. But we have a hunch that he will not be averse to making a trip across the Atlantic if offered the right inducement, and with the opportunity of fighting in an international battle, with the world's championship as a plum dangling before his eyes, he will think a long while before he turns down an offer from this side of the briny.

The enthusiasm over the Toledo battle and the new high mark it sets for prizes and all things fistie should be enough to convince the British champion that the dough is over here. That he'll get an offer is a certainty. He will probably be swamped with them. To say the least, the fistie world at large is ready for another international match, seeing that we haven't had one for the heavyweight title since 1894, when Jim Corbett knocked out Charley Mitchell at Jacksonville.

AMERICANS' CENTER GARDENER

This lad is an outfielder of rare ability, and covers that garden like the dew. He has a splendid record for this season, and is right now going his best. Kavanaugh played with the Dayton Vets, when that organization was a member of the Central league. He has also seen service with Little Rock, and several teams in the Texas league.

K. of C. Has Secured Dempsey For Exhibition

NEW YORK, July 10.—The Knights of Columbus, who have been giving boxing shows for wounded soldiers in and about New York, have obtained Jack Dempsey's word that he will appear at a monster boxing carnival to be held here some time in August at Madison Square Garden for the soldiers.

Full Program
At N. Randall

CLEVELAND, July 10.—Six races were on today's Grand Circuit card at North Randall, but it was doubtful early today whether the program could be carried out because of unfavorable weather. Five three-heat events and one three-year-old mile dash were down for decision. With nineteen entries the 2:17 pace was divided into two sections.

The Tavern "Steak" for 2:14 trotters, with a value of $3,000, was the feature. Twelve horses were entered and it promised to be another open race.

Second in importance was the 2:05 trot which promised to furnish the fastest trotting exhibition of the year. Five accepted the issue.

Nine go in the 2:18 trot and five in the 2:05 trot.

Joe Beckett Ready
To Go With Champ

LONDON, July 9.—Joe Beckett, new English heavyweight champion is ready to meet Jack Dempsey "anywhere, any time," after his match with George Carpentier, French champion, in September, his manager, Bernard Mortimer declared today.

"I am glad Dempsey won," said Mortimer. "Willard did the game no good by retiring as soon as he had whipped Johnson. I only hope Dempsey will prove a worthy champion and give Beckett a chance to meet him."

With the Trotters

Indiana horsemen are greatly interested in the three-year-old colt, Hegler, 2, 2:29 1-4, that is in the stable of Ed Geers and that will be raced in the big colt stakes. The Grand Old Man has already stepped the Hoosier colt in 2:08 1-4 and 2:00 and he looks like a high class trotter. Singularly he is by the great pacer, Hedgewood Boy, 2:01, that raced so many times a few years back and that was particularly notable because his full sister, Lady Maude C, raced right along with him and obtained a record almost in the same notch. Hegler is owned by George Crouch, Lafayette, who owns the good pacer, William, 1:58 1-2, that is said to be rounding into old time form this year.

DIVORCED WIFE ENDS LIFE

LONDON, July 10.—Mrs. Arthur Eliot, better known as Mrs. Mabel Louise Atherton, divorced wife of Colonel Thomas Atherton, was found shot this morning in her home in London, according to the Evening Standard this afternoon.

JACK DEMPSEY IS THE SEVENTH TITLE HOLDER

Jack Dempsey is the seventh holder of the world's championship title since fights have been held under Marquis of Queensberry rules. John L. Sullivan was the first American champion, but he never gained the world's championship. Corbett, who beat Sullivan for the American championship, won world honors when he beat Charley Mitchell. The champions under the Queensberry rules and the length of time they held the title, follow:

	Years
John L. Sullivan, 1882-1892	10
James J. Corbett, 1892-1897	5
Robert Fitzsimmons, 1897-1899	2
James J. Jeffries, 1899-1906	7
Tommy Burns, 1907-1908	1
Jack Johnson, 1908-1915	7
Jess Willard, 1915-1919	4
Jack Dempsey, 1919	0

HIGHER TREND OF STOCKS CONTINUES
NEW YORK, July 10.—The higher trend of the stock market was continued at the outset of today's session, many recent speculative favorites scoring gains of one to two points. Canadian Pacific, yesterday's outstanding feature, scored a new maximum for the current movement and shipping added to yesterday's advance under lead of Marine common and American International. The motor division and related specialties advanced, with U. S. Steel made only a nominal gain.

children so far this year. Total sales of $4,600,000 have been made in the state this year through schools, of which amount $72,000 was sold in this county. The per capita average of sales by the school children of this county is $1.78.

The Clermont county schools come to lead among the county schools while the city leadership is held by Ashland, Coshocton, Highland, Warren and Clinton counties in the order named. The Clermont County schools have a per capita average of sales of $21.75.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING ISSUE LIKELY TO GO BEFORE VOTERS

Council May Take Official Action at its Tonight
Session

CITY DADS IN FAVOR

Commercial Service May Follow Installation of the New Plant

Citizens of Lima will finally probably be given a chance to vote upon whether or not the city is to install a municipal lighting system, as Mayor Simpson has called a special session of council for this evening at 7:30 o'clock at which the whole matter will be definitely settled.

The light and finance committee met with a merchants committee in council chamber last evening, and after thoroughly discussing the project, Mayor Simpson was asked to call the special session so as to decide.

There are two reasons for putting the project to the people, city officials, today, said. One is to fully determine whether or not a municipal lighting system is wanted by two-thirds of the population, and the other reason is, in case the project is desired it may be accomplished and the expenditures for the installation will not come out of the operating expense of the city.

Practically every member of council is in favor of a municipal system, and it is positive the matter will be put to a vote of the people at tonight's session. This being done, necessary legislation will be drawn up immediately.

In the event that a bond issue for the erection of the system is voted favorably by citizens, it is probable the entire cost of the project will be made in the issue, and the remainder of the amount voted some years ago for a like installation will remain in the sinking fund. City Solicitor Light is today endeavoring to decide whether or not this may be done.

Whether the amount now in the sinking fund is used and a bond issue for the remainder of the cost issued, or whether the entire cost of the project will be made in the issue means practically the same to the taxpayer, Auditor Rupert cites.

It is the belief of Mayor Simpson, if a municipal lighting system is installed, it will only be a matter of a few years until the municipal plant will also take care of commercial lighting, such as is now being done in Fort Wayne, Ind. That city furnishing electricity for commercial purposes far cheaper than the Ohio Electric company is now furnishing it here.

The company is now charging commercial users eight and one half cents per kilowatt hour, and is asking council to be allowed to increase this rate one half cent. Council, on the other hand, is strongly contemplating the reduction of the rate to six cents per kilowatt hour. What conclusion will be arrived at in this matter is not known at present.

World at Home Show

In these wide days of experience and economy the average amusement patron looks for his investment to return full value. It is likely no modern out-door exposition has ever received more favorable endorsement than the World at Home Shows that comes to this city next Monday for six days under the auspices of the United Commercial Travellers.

For over fifteen years this well-known attraction has exhibited exclusively in all the largest cities in the United States and stood the test of critics of all kinds as to its merits.

As words and phrases can be made to cover deficiencies, so likewise they are of value when exploiting any venture of whatever calibre. It is necessary to inform the casual reader of your amusement offer, then allow him to decide as to its appeal to interest him. One thing the Polack Brothers are positively sure of is the sensational novelty of the water circus. "The Seaside Marine Girls," produced by Harry R. Polack, for tried and true it has met the approbation of thousands that are not only willing endorsers of this wonderful water exhibition, but have repeatedly visited the mammoth circus tank nearly holding a half million gallons of water, for in all their amusement experience nothing like this celebrated troupe of diving ventures and marine marvels headed by Lucile Anderson, has ever crossed their vision. Its daring originality is also expensive, for none except the highest class of water talent would be of use in the pantomime program with thrills and breadth maneuvers. This is only one of the many features to be seen on the World at Home Exposition grounds, which will be located at the corner of Murphy and North Main streets.

LIMA MAY YET GET ON AERIAL MAIL SERVICE ROUTE

Toledo May Be Center For Several Diverging Lines
Through Ohio

DAYTON TO DETROIT

Line Will Run Through this City and Station May be Established

Lima may yet be placed on a regular airplane mail route, and the chances for a Detroit-Lima-Dayton-Cincinnati service are said to be very good.

The mail service between Cleveland and Chicago, via airplane is said to be meeting with splendid success. The service is a daily affair and has reached a point where post-office authorities are beginning to believe it will not be long before more routes may be established.

Toledo The Center
According to information from Toledo, it is said that Postmaster Parrish is urging the establishment of a regular landing field and aerial mail station at Bayview Park, the site of the immense stadium where Jack Dempsey fought Jess Willard last Friday. Permanent buildings are expected to be erected. Hangars, repair shops and housing for the mechanics would be provided.

Lima On Route
Lima will be on the route from Cincinnati and Dayton to Toledo and Detroit when the aerial mail line is established between these cities and it is thought has a good chance to become a regular stopping station, especially since a supply of gasoline is always on hand at the big Solar Refinery here.

COUNCIL TO TAKE UP SEWER PROBLEM

At the special session of council to be held this evening, it is probable the matter of the Collett street sewer will be discussed. The legislation drawn for the erection of this project called for concrete block, while a bid on the construction entered by the Farley Construction company of Chicago, called for vitrified segment block.

It is probable, city officials said, the legislation will be changed to read vitrified segment block and bids accordingly will be advertised. This will take a matter of about six weeks, it is understood. If however, the old legislation stands, and concrete is still desired, the bids may be advertised for immediately.

In all events, officials stated, about 1,200 feet of the new sewer will have to be in concrete, as there is a part of the course which is very marshy ground which will necessitate the laying of a concrete foundation for the segment block. In this case it will be just as easy to use entire concrete for the 1,200 feet, officials think.

ONION GROWERS CLEARED.
Hartlin county onion growers Wednesday were notified that federal indictments against the National Onion Growers' association and themselves, as members, had been dismissed. The indictments were brought at Boston by a federal grand jury in 1915. They charged the association and some 80 of its members constituted a trust in violation of the Sherman law.

INJURED AT B. & O.
Samuel Darbula, a blacksmith at the B. & O. shops, was painfully bruised about 9 o'clock Thursday morning while at work, when a large clange iron on which he was working struck him. He was removed to his home, 1113 East North street, in the Williams & Davis ambulance.

Women Ordered To City Clinic

Florence Jamison, 20, and Marie Taylor, 20, both of whom were arrested by police last night, owing to their failure to report to the health clinic in Memorial hall, as ordered several weeks ago by the court, were turned over to the clinic again today for treatment. Marie Taylor, who was arrested several weeks ago, at that time was ordered to leave town but failed to do so. Chief Roush states today that unless she reported regularly to the health clinic she would be confined in the Detention hospital.

NEW YORK PAPER PRAISES WORK OF W. J. McLAUGHLIN

The New York Sun carries on its first page, with a large heading, the following dispatch from France regarding Warren J. McLaughlin, prominent Lima attorney who enlisted for Y. M. C. A. work overseas and who scored such successes there, in the face of many discouragements.

The Sun article is headed, "W. J. McLaughlin Wins Praise for 'Y' Work—His Athletic Record at Hamilton College and Columbia," and reads:

"LE MANS, June 5.—It is fifteen years since Warren J. McLaughlin of Lima, Ohio, took his LL. B. at Columbia, where he was singles and tennis champion, but Col. Charles K. of the 317th Infantry still regards him as a live wire, and all the fame McLaughlin has won in the law since his graduation has not made him forget his college performances at football and on the track.

"Col. Keller has written 'to convey the gratitude and appreciation of this regiment for his interpretation of what a live man can do in the name of the Y. M. C. A. for the benefit of the American soldier.' The letter was addressed to E. C. Carter, chief secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in France, and praises without stint the accomplishments of McLaughlin, who last November left his job as special counsel in the office of the Attorney General of Ohio for the Northwestern district to become but a hut secretary in France.

PRESIDENT NOT LIKELY TO VISIT LIMA ON BIG TOUR

It is hardly probable that President Wilson will include Lima in his itinerary thru Ohio the latter part of this month, according to Lima democrats, as they have received no word to that effect. It is expected that President Wilson will deliver addresses in several larger cities in the state, but owing to his limited time and many pressing duties, will hardly stop at Lima.

Plans are being made by Methodist centenary leaders at Columbus to have the president speak in that city on Saturday. If efforts in that direction fail, the centenary may be continued for a week in the hopes that the president will be able to address them later. He will speak in Cincinnati and possibly in Columbus, but those interested in obtaining President Wilson as a speaker in their cities have no basis on which to work, as the schedule has not yet been outlined.

DUPIUS BUYS CELINA MOVIE

G. O. Dupius, well known Lima motion picture proprietor has added another theater to his chain of movie houses in Lima and vicinity, purchasing the Ideal theater in Celina this week. Mr. Dupius also owns the "Fayette" the only other movie house in Celina. In addition he is proprietor of the Royal, Lima's oldest motion picture house, the Dreamland and the Strand.

NEW DICTIONARY OFFER TO READERS OF THIS PAPER

Marvelous Guide to Correct
Use of To-Day's English at Cost of Handling

A new dictionary, exclusively for our readers, is to be distributed by The Lima Times. The book is The New Universities Dictionary.

The dictionary, new in vocabulary, new in type, new in aids to the study of English, bound in flexible seal grain, is the handsomest, most convenient and most thorough work of its kind ever published.

Unique in many respects, The New Universities Dictionary surpasses all works of ready reference in the substantial qualities of its contents. The book was compiled by expert American lexicographers, including Prof. Percy W. Long, Ph.D., Department of English, Harvard University; Prof. Forrest S. Lunt, M.A., Instructor in English, Columbia University; Prof. Clark S. Northrup, Ph.D., Department of English, Cornell University; Prof. Morris W. Croll, Ph.D., Department of English, Princeton University; Prof. John C. Rolfe, Ph.D., Department of Latin, University of Pennsylvania. The editor-in-chief is George J. Hagar.

Accurate and authoritative, The New Universities Dictionary, nevertheless, is made simply, direct and plain. It shows for every day home folks, the history, growth and today's uses of English. It is a book designed for daily and constant use with great convenience in office and home. Business men will find it a fine help if every stenographer is provided with one, and stenographers who wish to keep abreast of the new words being added by their employers to business correspondence will find it a valuable guide.

Every protection is furnished so that readers will get the books if they cut the coupons as directed in the advertising. There will be no other outlet for the volumes. They can only be secured with the coupons. Only three coupons will be required in this campaign, and they will be readily found in The Lima Times.

EXECUTIVE TALKS WITH NEWSPAPER MEN ON TREATY

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Wilson, conferring with newspaper correspondents at the White House today indicated that he was extremely gratified that the treaty of peace had been ratified so promptly by the German national assembly.

Discussing the peace negotiations at Paris, President Wilson let it be known that the league of nations covenant will be in every treaty negotiated at Versailles, including that with Bulgaria with which country the United States never was at war.

In response to questions regarding the Fiume situation the president pointed out that the treaty of London provided that Fiume was to go to Croatia and that Italy did not lay claim to the city when that treaty was signed.

The president made it clear that demobilization of the American army would depend upon the speed with which the military conditions of the peace treaty were executed by Germany and the treaty was ratified by the various governments.

The Germans have from one to four months in which to deliver all material except that sufficient for the reduced German army provided for in the peace treaty and the president believes American troops should stay on the Rhine until the material is delivered.

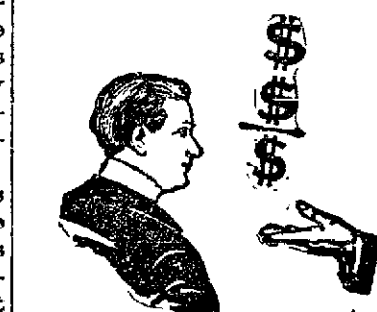

Mr. Wilson feels that the United States must play a generous part in the reconstruction of Europe but he believes this should be accomplished by establishing some sound basis of credit rather than by direct government aid.

Mr. Wilson let it be known to the correspondents that the treaty with France was designed for the protection of France until such time as this special guarantee would no longer be needed because of the protection to be afforded all nations by the league of nations.

DOLLARS AND EYESIGHT
You can't estimate the value of your eyes—they are priceless.

Cost of glasses, which will protect and preserve your eyes, therefore is of secondary importance—efficiency and comfort first.

We offer you a three-fold service: A specialist to examine your eyes, a mechanic to grind your lenses and the optician to adjust your glasses, all under one roof, at a reasonable fee and without a divided responsibility.

Lenses, $2.00 and upward.
Glasses, $3.00 and upward.

What Is the Question?

Are you, as natural gas users, willing to pay for SERVICE and get it? That is, natural gas service for cooking, hot water heaters and small room heating stoves; or do you want to pay a higher price for artificial gas?

That is the question.

You are hereby notified that The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has renewed, for the period of one year, its Administrative Order No. 34 which provides that during shortage of natural gas, large consumers shall be cut off; therefore, we hereby notify you that we will furnish natural gas for the following purposes ONLY, namely cooking, hot water heaters and small room heating stoves.

See the demonstrating stoves in our office. Properly adjusted stoves mean conservation of gas. Learn how to use gas in the most efficient manner.
